RISE, PROGRESS and PRESENT STATE of the CHARITY.

NOTWITHSTANDING the pious Liberality of her late Majesty Queen Anne, in giving up the First Fruits and Tenths for the Augmentation of small Livings; the still slender Revenues of the greatest Part of the beneficed Clergy, have long been, and probably will remain, but too general, as well as too just a cause of Concern. The Reformation (favourable as it was to the Protestant Religion) did not make so competent and independent a Provision for the inferior Clergy, as could have been wished; for many Livings being stript of great Part of the Tythes before they fell to their Share, the Incomes were even then inadequate to the necessary Demands of Life; and how much more so now (since Money is so much decreased, and every Commodity so greatly encreased in value) there is but too much reason to lament.

An Indulgence likewise now first granted, became eventually no inconsiderable Burthen to them; for the reformed Clergy were allowed to marry upon their small Emoluments, in consequence of which Privilege, Poverty in many Cases became not only their own Lot, but too often the Lot of a numerous Offspring. Thus the Widows and Children of the poor Clergy in Time grew to be not only very numerous, but their Condition so far deplorable, that it, ere long, excited the Compassion, and was thought not unworthy the serious Attention of the Public; for in the Reign of King Charles II. a Society was established by Charter under the Name of The Corporation for the Relief of the Poor Widows and Children of Clergymen, which is now happily enabled by its Endowments to admit great Part of the Widows that offer.

But notwithstanding this Relief, many of their Families, being large, were still found burthensome to the Widows, for though this excellent Charity allowed a small Sum towards their Support, they were yet but little, if at all, able to put their Children out Apprentices, or place them in any Way of getting their Livelihood with Reputation. This then seemed to call for another Establishment, to take this Part of the Charge upon themselves, and thereby enable the Children to emerge from Poverty,

Poverty, and advance themselves in Life ; and thus very soon arose that humane and extensive Institution of The Society of the Feast of the Sons of the Clergy ; by the Assistance of which, great Numbers of the Children of the poor Clergy are happily rescued from the Prospect of almost inevitable Poverty ; provided with the Means of getting honest Bread, and becoming useful Members of the Community.

This Charity, noble and generous as its Intentions were, yet saw itself many Times defeated in its Operations, and abridged of its Influence, by Children offering themselves who were either too young, or imperfectly qualified to be admitted ; so that a subordinate Society, whose Province it should be to supply that Defect, seemed necessary to extend the Benefit of the Feast Society, and render the Plan compleat.

This was not long wished for in vain ; for that nothing might be wanting to enlarge the Bounds of so useful an Institution, a Set of Gentlemen out of their compassionate Regard and zealous Attachment to the Interest of the Fartherless and Widow, in the Year 1749, formed themselves into a Body, in Aid of the Feast Society, under the Name of A SOCIETY OF STEWARDS AND SUBSCRIBERS FOR MAINTAINING AND EDUCATING POOR ORPHANS OF THE CLERGY TILL OF AGE TO BE PUT APPRENTICES. This infant Establishment soon gathered Strength sufficient to execute its Intentions, as far as its little Fund would allow ; and having happily encreased from Year to Year as it became more known, has now made no inconsiderable Advance, though not so great as could be wished, or the Nature of the Charity seems to demand.

The Society, consisting now of near four Hundred Subscribers, of both Sexes, has, since its first Establishment in 1749, put out to School fifty-six Boys, and twenty-nine GIRLS, including those ballotted in at the last Election ; thirty-four of the First of which, have been put out Apprentices, or otherwise provided for by their Friends, together with eight of the Girls ; the Reason of which Disproportion is, that Girls have not been admitted till within these few Years.

Such is the Plan and Progress of this auxiliary Society, which has long been endeavouring to expand itself, and the moderate Subscription required of the Members, viz. one Guinea per Annum, puts it in the Power of numberless well-disposed Persons to become Benefactors ; and particularly, of great Part of the benefited Clergy, who should seem to be more immediately bound by Interest, as well as the Ties of Charity, to promote it : And the Society having already begun to take Children of both Sexes into its Bosom, cannot but hope many of the fair Sex, from their more tender and sympathetic Feelings, may be induced to think this Charity worthy of their Regard, not doubting, but such who are descended from, or nearly connected ned with dignified or opulent Clergymen, will make it more immediately their Concern.

If this Account of an Institution so truly useful, should strike the Minds of any Persons who would wish to become Contributors, they are requested to order their Subscriptions to be paid into the Hands of Mr. Hayter, in Pancras-lane, near Cheapside, the Society's Treasurer, or to Mr. Sandby, Bookseller, opposite St. Dunstan's Church, in Fleet-street; or to Mr. Ridley, Bookseller, in St. James's-street, who are authorised by the Treasurer to give Receipts, and those who shall think proper to bequeath any Sum to the Society, are desired to do it in the following Form :

ITEM. I give the Sum of to the Treasurer for the Time being of a Society, who usually meet in the City of London, and are known by the Name of The Society of Stewards and Subscribers for Maintaining and Educating Poor Orphans of the Clergy, till of Age to be put Apprentice; which Sum of I desire may be applied towards carrying on the Charitable Purposes of the said Society.

N. B. The BOYS are placed under the Care of the Rev. Mr. Addison, at Knayton, near Thirsk, in the County of York; and the GIRLS under that of Mrs. Millicent Evison, at the Grange-Walk, near Bermondsey Church, Southwark; in Justice to both of whom it ought to be observed, that the strictest Care has always been taken, both of their Morals, and of their Advancement in useful Learning in their respective Departments.
